

and worthy P.S. deserves a certain amount of commendation. Let him have it. It will work him ~~happier~~ and you too. Also it will be a big piece of flattery if you seem to be "worked" a little by his ~~tactics~~^{talk} when it doesn't mean much of anything to you rather than if you try to show your superior intelligence in seeing ~~through~~ his ~~wily~~ tactics. Also you can gain a point much quicker with him by putting your plea in the form of questions appealing to his superior judgment than by stating facts.

Would better destroy this letter as I don't wish it to go on file.

Dear May:-

I have been wanting to write to you for a long time about your new position at Oberlin. I think it is a fine thing and I hope you will like it as well as you anticipate.
I may be mistaken but it seems to me that in some ways your position will require a little more than ordinary tact due to the other teachers in your department. Mr. Sherman is I believe just the opposite of most of the teachers whom you have had and is has the fault of being to unfully to fulfill and too ^{unwillingly} willing to undertake responsibility and work.

I imagine that he will be very willing to accept the responsibility of planning part of your work for you. If he does ^{by} that in our you won't like it and you'll want to keep on good terms with him to have you work for smoothly.
Of course each a thing as I have say.
I get my news happen but my idea is that it is entirely within the range of possibility. Having now shown you this amount possibility I want to give you my advice as to how to meet it. In the first place I would advise you to give any hints from P.D.S. This full value for to have some good ideas. Secondly I would advise you to keep on the good side of him because he a valuable friend. He is a hard worker and can put through something whether when a ~~clever~~ might fail just because he's like that ^{more} ~~more~~ is the Bible who was heard because of her much importuning.

Now as to keeping on the good side P.D.S. you of course don't want to know under and how you individuality. I think he is very easily flattered and would often give up a point if his feelings are soothed by a few well chosen words. Of course you understand I don't mean you flattery on any basis where you don't think it is deserved but as a clever man and a
