Dear Will, Please accept my very best and every congratulations on your commencement (and also on your rendering of Laurel's gifts, which I had told me so very good.) You have plenty of talent, and I hope this time you do not feel like a "policeman's clothing," as you said you did in reviewing your "Shakespeare" from the High School.
I wish I might have seen with Emily to see you take the part.

Now your Journal Education is well and you are just commencing on the order of their spicy fragrance. Do you remember the "you sent" I really can't think of an adequate word to describe it. "Push" wouldn't do, and "stick" is an insult considering the results, but it certainly only needed an elastic band to make an excellent thing short.

I am going down in praise for a month with my family and you can imagine what a good time John will have. He is four and a half and sturdy and bronny as can be.

But I must expect you to read all this. In the fields of Canada you might have time, and up there perhaps you will again find time to remember and old friend

Education's industry will last as long as you live. May it be guided with as many pages and as few disappointments.
Subjects as you are able to acquire.

Take and Mother put the Niles by change on their way home. I hope you may see him in a good way and perhaps you may leave to the great future long after he reaches perhaps at the "Hotel" I did hear a lucky one you sent me around there I received in my button box, and probably the blue less buttons on that account! The little one just you see sent me too.
I should like and this year is perhaps the best I have had. I am very glad
