The Glorious Fourth, 1893.

My dear Mr. Belden,

I am called upon to go to Boston tomorrow, and so there will be a little unexpected delay in carrying out the printing matters, but the printer will have the new type in hand by the time I return, and then we shall go on as rapidly as may be. There will be no difficulty in getting good pads made, I am sure, although we may have to dodge some patent. I am sorry for this little delay, but it cannot be helped. By the way, I do not know where my samples can have gone to if you have not found them. I will put some small samples in this. Prices are for full reams of folio size. — 8 X Sample.

Yours very sincerely,

F. D. Phinney
