

Tuesday Morning.

Dear Mrs. Belden

I suppose you think I have forgotten you - I have thought of you very often, but have been so very busy since I came home that I neglected to write - to you the following week, as I should have done.

I found sister quite sick when I came home she is some better now.

I have heard quite often from your little ones at Oxford, Dr. Safferto says they are getting along nicely,

will soon be well.

I expect to go to Saratoga this morning.
Mag. Cummins and Julia
Shepherd were at Mrs.
J. Plans, the last letter
I had from her.

I hope this will find you and dear baby
boy well, with kind regards to Mr. Belden.

I am writing in great-haste this morning - I would like so much to hear from you -

Yours Respectfully
Elizabeth S. Emery
