

Dear Grandma and Pitt:

These letters just came and here they are. I'm intensely interested in all the stories & feel like a prisoner in a cell being away from what you are doing.

Pitt, I know I owe you that money I borrowed this summer, but am ashamed to say I don't know how much it is & you said you could find it any time in your account book. Unless you need it now, maybe the best thing would be to wait till you are less busy - perhaps after you get to Chicago - and then send me a statement, and I'll send it right away.

Also, you know I mean to finish paying back what I borrowed at New Haven. I wish my account book of that period would turn up, but if it doesn't, I'll try to make an estimate. But, any way, you may be glad to know that you have a little money coming in; and I will also begin sending that when you get to New Haven Chicago.

I wish my wedding-present for you was bought, The speakers. I³ Herrick + Schreyffer thought they could get them at a reasonable price, couldn't you telephone down + ask them to order them right away? If they are over $30 get a half dozen, if under, get a dozen. Please do this right away to please me. I would attend to it, but this is no place for anything. I'm getting much disappointed at the idea of not having them now.

I wonder what "ju all" wrote Selden. Wouldn't it be nice if he could be near Overlin + spend week-ends with The Lady? ⁴

That extensive course I'm teaching for Dr. Harris has only 5 in it in place of the 30 or so she expected. They asked me last night if I thought it would be kept up for so few & I said yes, & told them if she didn't want to continue it, I would be willing to. They said, "Oh, we wish we could have you all the time," but I hope she won't hear they said that - I wouldn't care for a rivalry with my "chief": however, if she doesn't want it, I'm crazy to keep it, for even ⁵ that much money would pay me. The teacher gets five dollars for each hour's credit from each student, so five students in this two hour course would be fifty dollars for the semester, a hundred for the ^{year} year, & I think there might be more the second semester. I'd like the money awfully well & there'd be very little extra work besides the class hours, because it is the same as a course I'm already giving.

Good bye for now. Write love — Pally.
