Dear Miss Beldeu:-

Perhaps I am a little late in thanking you for your pretty Christmas card. It's so nice to be remembered.
I hope you had a jolly time during the holidays.

memory course before attempting to study for the exam.

A great many of us are going in to see Haunter Tuesday night. It's at the Little Playhouse in Cleveland, and the actors are all amateurs of the Ohio School of Stage Arts.
Every night next week some neighboring college, such as Oberlin, is represented; and Tuesday is Lake Erie

We've been finding it harder than ever since you met here to become reconciled to your absence, Miss Beldea. Will you be at Eleena next year, do you know? English is dreadfully fatiguing, I think, under the new regime. I believe I have about a ton of notes which have accumulated during Chaucer lectures.
One ought to take a

Ophelia must be fat.

I am at Miss Sears' Table now. I was told to look pleasant - that it was part of my college education, but it isn't so dreadful as I had feared; we seldom mention mathematics.

You have heard, no doubt of "The Headless Horseman" given at the Utopia under the auspices of the Science Class. Will Rogers made a magnificent Ichabod Crane.

You see, Miss Belden, nothing really wonderful has happened here. Perhaps you will tell me some Clever news -?

Sincerely, Anne Gaby
