

Dear Maama;

I wonder how you are off for money? I am a little hard up because of buying my typewriter. This Brown lent me enough so that I could pay cash on it when I got it and taking that out to return to her, leaves me only $136. 24 for this month. Have you got heavy bills to pay, I wonder? If you come here this month - as I hope you are planning to do, the ~~Ma-~~ yak will be something we should plan on. I've been planning to send a little every month to be paid in an account in Pitt's Bank and a little on paying off my yale debt to her. I believe I will send her just five dollars on each of these so as not to lose out on my plan of sending something every month. It hardly seems worth while to send so little, but I believe it is good to stick to the principle.

I ought to get a check from my extension work this month too — not very large. When that comes, maybe I can send it. I believe I will send you only sixty dollars now just place to send you more later in the month. Is that all right? Do you need more now? Please answer this frankly in your next letter.

I am doing exams and am very deep in just now.
I refer to your letter to one of the girls. Your letters are so interesting. How nice for Felicia to take Mrs.
Prawback around. I'm so glad for Mrs. Mowice.

has that kind friend. Isn't it strange people can have the heart to "do" the poor!

The eager to know your views on my taking that Oberlin campaign work. It seems to me it might be a mistake to refuse it, yet if I take it, I'd have to make a success of it. The biggest part of the campaign really comes next fall, however. I want to take it.

With love —

Fally.

Feb. 1,

Your letter has just arrived. I had nothing to do about the invitations & so am sending the Highgate to Evelina's

By the way, Lady, I noticed a notice in a bank the other day saying that certain Liberty bonds have matured and will not draw interest any longer & should be turned in. I'm not sure whether there are of the denomination you have or not, but you had better inquire at the bank & get the money put into some thing else. They will not put it into one of the good investments in Evelina's bank? Still - if it is in an Ohio fund, you won't be taxed on it & will otherwise. I guess you had better get Mr. Barrett & or perhaps Mrs Taylor - to advise. Don't let the bond stay idle, will you, Lady?
