

REV.

DEAR BROTHER:

Foster's Cyclopædia of Prose and Poetic Illustrations should have been called THE PREACHER'S CYCLOPÆDIA.

It furnishes the best literature from twenty-five hundred different authors, on all the themes of pulpit discussion.

It has been used and highly commended by all the Bishops of the M. E. Church beginning with Bishop Janes, by presidents of colleges, and by preachers of the highest standing in all denominations too numerous to be named.

This work has now been developed so that every user can catalogue, classify and index his own library under printed subjects and sub-divisions, also under the the texts of Scripture. This is a point of very great value, never before attained and not otherwise possible.

This work should be the first Cyclopædia bought by the preacher and all other books should be indexed into it.

Please call upon the author, who is present, and will take pleasure in explaining its use and giving the very lowest rates and any terms desired. Do not fail to call, as it may influence your whole ministry for good.

Fraternally yours,

ELON FOSTER.

Address: 147 Hewes St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Foster's Cyclopædia is pre-eminently the Preachers' and Students' Cyclopædia. No minister should be without it."

Bishop J. H. Vincent, D. D., LL. D.

"I do not know how to do better by a young preacher than to give him an appointment, and tell him to provide himself with a set of Foster's Cyclopædia, and then go and get sinners converted."

Bishop J. F. Hurst, D. D., LL. D.

"I would give $2500 if I had adopted Dr. Foster's library methods twenty-five years ago."

W. H. Thomas, D. D.

"Foster's Cyclopædia should be in every library, public or private. The young minister, or student especially, should begin to use this Index and Catalogue for every Library at once, and it will be of great value to him in the subsequent years."

Bishop Thomas Bowman, D. D., LL. D.

"This work is more of a theological and homiletical school than a majority of our preachers ever find anywhere else."

Bishop C. H. Fowler, D. D., LL. D.

"This work is bread and meat, bread and meat, for preacher and people."

Rev. Harlow Skeel, N. N. Y. Conference.

"I do not see how any preacher can consent to be without a full set of Foster's Cyclopædia."

Rev. C. C. McLean, Pastor First M. E. Church, Scranton, Pa.

INDEX AND CATALOGUE

FOR ANY LIBRARY.

8vo. Five hundred pages. Price, in cloth, $2.25; in Sheep, $3.00

Has numbered blanks for book catalogue, also the printed subjects and subdivisions likely to be met in one's reading, alphabetically arranged, with blanks for entries following each subject.

The fact is this is the very best indexed work we have ever seen. And as such it is eminently usable. Whoever has the whole set, with the indexes, has a whole library and a literary tool chest, already to his hand.—Christian Intelligencer.

Foster's Cyclopædias must be pronounced good and wholesome books, and likely to do good wherever they may be used.—Daniel Curry, D. D., LL. D.

A library in itself. I refer to it often. A perfect galaxy of the gems of English Literature.—Chaplain C. C. McCabe, D. D.

Foster's Cyclopædia of Prose and Poetic Illustrations should have been called the Preachers' Cyclopædia.

It has lead many to suppose that it contained only anecdotes and figures of speech, whereas it furdishes the best literature from the best authors, on all the themes of pulpit discussion.

By its use a comprehensive survey of the best thought in the most attractive form of expression on any topic or text may be made.

It has been used and highly commended by presidents of colleges, and by preachers of the highest standing in all denominations too numerous to be named.

This work has now been developed so that every user can catalogue, classify and index his own library under printed subjects and sub-divisions, also under the texts of Scripture. This is a point of very great value, never before attained and not otherwise possible.

This should be the first Cyclopædia bought by the preacher and all other books should be indexed into it.

A revised edition with a working catalogue and with spaced indexes for the subjects and texts is now ready.

For special rates, address,

Rev. ELON FOSTER, D. D.,

I find that I can build my whole library and all my reading into Foster's Cyclopædia. I did not appreciate this feature till I began to use it. The work is very valuable for what it contains, and for what it enables whoever uses it to do for himself. With it I propose to convert my whole library into a Theological Cyclopædia and Bible Commentary.—Rev. J. M. Domingos.

This Cyclopædia is of more utility to me than all the rest of my library.—Rev. J. M. Taulbee, Ky.

These books are a wonderful help to me. When everthing else fails, I am sure to find relief in them.—Rev. V. W. Barnes.

I have $100 worth of Cyclopædias, and Dr. Foster's work is more used by me than all the others.—Rev. J. T. Dennis.

This is the very best book of the kind with which I am acquainted. Every preacher who will make a diligent use of it will find it a wonderful aid in the presentation of gospel themes. The appended indexes are invaluable.—John J. Tigert, D. D., Prof. in Vanderbilt University.

I recommend this work to all our young preachers at Vanderbilt University. By their judicious use every preacher may make his sermons more attractive and efficient in reaching both saints and sinners than would be possible without it.—W. E. Tillet, D. D., Dean of Theology, Vanderbilt University.

Very useful books in the preachers' library, and both the editor and publishers deserve our thanks.—Charles H. Spurgeon.

This Cyclopædia has been of very great use to me. It is constantly on my table with my Bible, dictionary and concordance.—W. H. Luckenbach, D. D., Luth.

I cordially commend this work. It is a mine of wealth to all who use it.—F. M. Ellis, D. D., Bap.

I have used this work for several years with great comfort and profit. One who has been as long as I have in one pulpit, (thirty-four years) will feel its need and appreciate its helpfulness.—Jno. W. M. Williams, D. D., Bap.

It supplies a want which no other work within my knowledge meets, and is carefully and thoroughly executed. It should be in the hands of every student.—Geo. W. Eaton, D. D., Pres. Hamilton Theological Seminary, Bap.

In these volumes the Sunday School teacher will find an apt quotation or selection of poetry, or illustrative incident adapted to every subject; and by means of its copious topical and textual indexes he can at once turn to the article needed.—Jesse L. Hurlbutt, D. D., Sec'y M. E. S. S.

Foster's Cyclopædia has helped me more than any book I ever had except the Bible.—J. A. Worden, D. D., Pres. S. S. Sec'y.

Foster's Cyclopædia is pre-eminently the Preachers' and Students' Cyclopædia. No minister should be without it.—Bishop J. H. Vincent, D. D., LL. D.

I don't know how to do better by a young preacher than to give him an appointment, and tell him to provide himself with a set of Foster's Cyclopædia, and then go and get sinners converted.—Bishop J. F. Hurst, D. D., LL. D.

I would give $2,500 if I had adopted Dr. Foster's library methods twenty-five years ago.—W. H. Thomas, D. D.

Foster's Cyclopædia should be in every library, public or private. The young minister, or student, especially, should begin to use this Index and Catalogue for every library at once, and it will be of great value to him in subsequent years.—Bishop Thomas Bowman, D. D., LL. D.

This work is more of a theological and homiletical school than a majority of our preachers ever find anywhere else.—Bishop C. H. Fowler, D. D., LL. D.

This work is bread and meat, bread and meat, for preacher and people.—Rev. Harlow Steel, N. Y. Conference.

I do not see how any preacher can consent to be without a full set of Foster's Cyclopædia.—Rev. C. C. McClain.

This is a work worth buying, one which cannot fail to prove a permanently good investment.—The Watchman.

Foster's Cyclopædia has quadrupled the literary possibilities of the American pulpit. I warmly commend it to all who would increase their efficiency in christian work.—T. DeWitt Talmadge, D. D.

I thought I was through buying books for my library, but I want Foster's Cyclopædia for myself and my children.—Rev. J. N. Craig, D. D., Sec'y of S. Pres. Ch. Ec. Society.

This Cyclopædia fills an important place in my library and has done so for many years. I regard the work as well nigh invaluable.—J. E. Kiltredge, D. D.

I have been making use of Foster's work for several years, and would rather part with any other volumes in my library.—Robert Patterson, D. D.

I take off my hat to you, sir, and give you the military salute. You have accomplished a work which puts us all to shame. I wish you great blessing and success in its circulation.—Rev. Joseph Cook.

Index and Catalogue for any Library.

*How Index-learning turns no student pale,
Yet holds the eel of science by the tail.—POPE.*

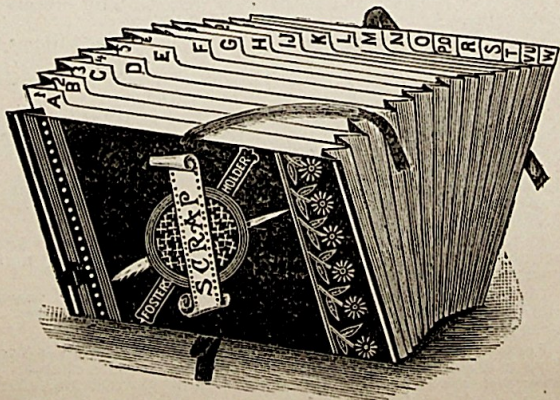

Foster's Analytical Index marks a great advance in literary work. A printed index to the subjects of one's reading is a heretofore unheard of thing, but is now possible to any one who uses this ingenious device. It is likely to work a revolution in library methods.—Chatauqua Assembly Herald.

It was a happy thought to have these indexes of analytical character and also to put them in a separate volume. I do not know of a superior help for the student.—Bishop J. F. Hurst, D. D., LL. D.
