Roughly, Mary.

I have to go to bed so much that I can't see all our friends & don't know how to do it. I am
 very much obliged to you for your kind
 attention
 to my affairs & for your kind
 wishes
 for me & for my family.

 Table-cloth ----- 2.
 Napkins ----- 9.
 40 pieces total.

About half of those that are going to be ironed are ironed & the rest will be done before dinner tomorrow. Suit that a pretty decent showing? My hands are also a showing, but I guess that is not the adjective to apply to them.

Mrs. Cayton seems to have adopted me just right, for she has cooked every meal I've had since Margaret's report away, and I can't help it because she thinks I don't like the things when I refuse. She does but we talk her into the 'dishes, too', but don't eat much, beyond tea.

I struggle like it very much if you should send me the already typed. Whenever the next mail is a bill set by the table I read it & turn back it unread if I can't make it, but I'm sure I'll take it. I am trying to read the papers & I don't do well at it at all. They're all come during & Dr. Brown's ladies & I'd try to read what, but we hope I shall succeed in making an improvement.

They want to know I'm going to have my photograph. Also read in the Quarterly of the Quarterly & the Quarterly selections in that volume that our class read.

The "little matters" are written in the back of my copy "1- Make divisions of the argument of the Battle of B. 2- Make a list of passages in B.
B. that especially parody the classical epit.
3- Story of Cadizius + Lucrecia." I'm afraid my class can't do the second question as I don't think they have any of those taken enough to keep & I don't know how well I remember it myself; but I see there are some marks on the margin of my book. The other questions will hardly be enough to keep them busy in class. I have an awfully long list of questions on Pope for them. Suggestions are always welcome

Don't forget about Shelley
