New York.

Dear Miss Betden,

I enclose a letter about boarding plans for you, which I hope you will find helpful, and which you need not return. The writer is young, your age I think, and beautiful in every way. I hope you may be in the house with her - unless you take a room - which perhaps you could get at 84 Wall Street when I am. The price would be nine and a half dollars a week or more. The "keeper" is Miss Winchell. There are no drawbacks except the price! I'd love to see you with me. The only other place I know is Mrs.
Professor Curtis, 61 Trumbull St.

but I believe you'd rather enjoy a bonding - hour.

I want to call before I left but was too busy writing. I hope to, the end of the month when I return.

Write love to your sister, and mother,

Your friend,

Henry E. Parsons
