

suggests in not such kindly terms, even among intelligent people, but he has made a good impression, notwithstanding in the strong Southern hold of success.
The girls hear the most disagreeable things said such as I would not repeat. Aunt Jenny gets quite furious sometimes and says she hates the South.
I intended reading The Memoirs of Mrs. Ashe, thinking it must be worth it from my standpoint but while waiting for several days I lost my interest. I like best historical novels here been reading "The Clansmen" by Tho Drew Jr. "The Crisis" stories of the time of the civil war & which I saw & have been extremely interesting. Then you read "Planes hasset" & you a very very colored picture of Aaron Burr but if you have not you must read "The Congress" a true history of Alexander Hamilton.

It is full of politics & history.
This is by Estlin & Herbert.
I am now reading "Life of Abn Scholar" which is very interesting by Miss Tarbell.

We are having lovely weather. Spring south is certainly by very agreeable. The green the birds & the flowers are delightful, instead of snow banks and slippery roads which they are having north - so we have, or don't. You may wonder that Prof Wagner's house the house (black) opposite yours that will be very nice I should think to have them for neighbors.
I am glad Ellen can spend her vacation at home but it will be long before you can both

Some one asked me a few days ago when that "sweet young lady" is, that visited her last winter, at Centerville Landing at work teaching, says I, "It is too bad you could not get the pottery you wanted but another time later will do just as well. Oh, just reading your letter I find that Ellen is not at home. How I would love to be with you all next summer, but can make no plan but think it hardly likely that I can, but perhaps we'll see each other at all the days our some time even in the near future we can't tell what the summer will bring forth?

Well, good bye, dear to you and dear Ellen as she is not at Oberlin as you expected. Ever, a heart full of love Grandma.
