

My dear Mary,
Mamma is very much better today and I feel awfully guilty for writing you. Don't you worry at all. We are going to ask Mrs. Hawkins tonight to get a specialist to see Mamma. This is Mrs. Davis' advice and I think we would all feel relieved

if we did. But she (Mamma) seems very well. You know she doesn't seem to look so sick. Every thing is going well, and you need not worry and I am ashamed for you
too, Miss Poppy.

Mamma spoke
with relief this morning of my being back
at Glendale next year.
& I felt almost guilty to be writing about

Pauline's house.

I don't know so far yet any evening here, this week-end.

Love to my dear Poppy

Mamma

March 29, '07