Wellesley - May 19, 1924.

Dear Mrs. Hadley.

In the multiplicity of our cares and sorrows we have neglected to inform you of the sorrow that has come to us in the passing away of my daughter Adelaide. She left us May 3rd in the morning after more than a year of painful sickness - though, I might say she had less pain towards the last.

Her funeral was on Tuesday, the 6th and on the 7th her body was taken to Westmoreland N. H. and laid beside that of her father. You can imagine how desolate we sit here in the house she built, with her gone out of it, but we are glad for her that she has no more to suffer in her earthly body. We cannot follow her spirit but we believe she is somewhere with the glorified ones, gone before.
Yours in the bonds of love -

Joe S. M. Locke -
