News Item for Oak Leaves

Mrs. Henry T. Paulson of 936 North Harvey Avenue, has returned from the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Scranton Belden, onNovember 6, at Elmira, New York, and in the chapel at Greenwood Cemetary, New York City where internment took place November 7. Mrs. Belden had previously made long visits with Mrs. Paulson in Oak Park. She died at the home of another daughter, Dr. Mry M. Belden, professor in Elmira College. Mrs. Belden had however always kept her home in Oberlin, Ohio.

Mrs. Belden had a very large circle of friends throughout this and various foreign countries because of her life first as a missionary in Constantinople and Bulgaria until ill health of her husband compelled their return home; then for many years following that as director of the International Missionary Union, also as one time state president for Thio of the Non Partisan W.C.T.U., as a leader of mission study classes for berlin College students, and in numerous other religious and civic antivities. Mrs. Belden's ancestors projected and developed the early iron, coal and railroad interests of northern New Jersey and Pennsylvania founding the city of Scranton, Pennsylvania which bears her family name, and serving as first president of the Lakawana Railroad.

Physician Dies

DR. WILLIAM H. TAYLOR

DEATH TAKES DR. W. H. TAYLOR

Former House Physician at S. Side Hospital Was Ill Four Months

Dr. William H. Taylor, aged 56, of 50 Woodbine Ave., prominent member of the Mahoning Medical Society and former house physician at the South Side unit of the Youngstown Hospital, died at the North Side unit of the Youngstown Hospital at 11:30 p. m. Thursday after a lingering illness.

Born in Oberlin, Dr. Taylor was the son of the late Dr. Wallace and Mary Wisner Taylor. He lived the early part of his life in the vicinity of his birthplace and was a graduate of Oberlin College in the class of 1899. He later attended the University of Michigan and received his medical degrees at the Rush Medical College,

Dr. Taylor served his interneship at the Lakeside Hospital, Çleveland

Dr. Taylor came here in 1904 as resident physician of the Youngstown Hospital, and later began general practice. He was a senior member of the medical staff of the hospital and for many years held classes and lectures for nurses. He was one of the first doctors to volunteer his services to direct a baby welfare clinic, and his station at Haselton was the first one to remain open throughout the year.

The Mahoning County Medical Society, in passing a resolution in memory of Dr. Taylor, a member since 1905, wrote in part: Mourned Ry Ass County Medical Society keenly regret the untimely passing of Dr. Taylor and send their heartfelt condolences to the bereaved family.

"Dr. Taylor was an earnest and conscientious physician who gave himself unsparingly to his work nad did much charity service in his private practice. He was genial and gracious to his patients and colleagues, and was never heard to speak unkindly of anyone. He was loved for his mild and unostentatious manner, his sincerity and kindness of

Dr. Taylor's father, a medical missionary in Japan for more than 40 years, founded hospitals at Osaka and Kobe, Japan, and was prominent in relief work in the Orient. He introduced experimental medicine in Japan and conducted extensive research there, being the first to perform successful operations for cataract. He had an international reputation in bdominal surgery.

Dr. Taylor was an active religious worker and was a member of the First Presbyterian Church. He was also active in the affairs of the Mahoning Medical Society.

He was married in 1908 to Ellen Scranton Belden, whom he leaves, with two daughters, Ellen Scranton Taylor, a student at Wellesley College, and Mary Wisner Taylor, of Elmira, N. Y.

He also leaves three brothers, Carl C. Taylor of Chicago, John W. Taylor of Cincinnati, and Robert M. Taylor of Montana, and a sister, Harriet A. Taylor, of Oberlin.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at four p. m. at the residence. Rev. W. H. Hudnut will officiate. The body will be taken to Oberlin for interment at three p. m. Monday. The body will remain at the Orr Funeral Home until the time of services.

PHYSICIANWERE 29 YEARS, DIES

Funeral Of Dr. William Tay lor Scheduled For Home On Sunday

Dr. William H. Taylor, 56, of 50 Woodbine, a physician here for 29 years, died at North Side hospital Thursday after an illness of four months.

Funeral services will be held at, the home at 4 p. m. Sunday in charge of Dr. W. H. Hudnut. Interment will be made at Oberlin, Monday.

Dr. Taylor was graduated from Oberlin college, 1899, studied medicine for two years at the University of Michigan and was graduated in 1902 with an M. D. degree from Rush college, Chicago. He served as an interne at Lakeside hospital, Cleveland, before beginning practice here in 1904.

He was a resident physician of the Youngstown hospital before entering private practice. He was senior member of the medical staff of the hospitals prior to his death and held instruction classes for nurses.

Dr. Taylor was the first physician to volunteer his services in directing a baby welfare clinic and his station in Haselton was the first to remain open thruout the year. This work was one of many charity activities he engaged in.

The doctor entered North Side hospital in February where he remained until his death. He was a member of the Mahoning County Medical society since 1905 and a member of First Presbyterian church. His father, Dr. Wallace Taylor was a medical missionary in Japan for 40 years.

Dr. Taylor is survived by his widow, Ellen Scranton Belden Taylor, and two daughters, Ellen Scranton Taylor, a student at Wellesley college, and Mary Wisner Taylor, a high school student; three brothers, Carl Cravath Taylor, Chicago, John Wallace Taylor, Cinci and Robert M. Taylor of Mo and a sister, Harriet A. T Oberlin.

Oberlin.

The members of the medical society in a statement today extelled the services of Dr. Taylor and expressed condolence to the family.