

1932 Sunday -

My dear Mrs Lukens

The world seems very much lonelier today - to us - knowing that we may not see dear Mrs Belden again.

Selden gave us great pleasure by coming to see us when he was in town last summer, but he told us then that his mother was very weak - as we had known for some time.

Mrs Belden richly deserves all the love and devotion that I know her children feel for her.
Dolly joins me in grief and love and sympathy for you all -
