My dear Brother Bill:—

Mama and I are the only ones home now and it seems awfully lonesome. We sleep in the dining-room, but sometimes I sleep on the porch although it is getting cold.

Yesterday William and I and four other boys went out to the river to shoot, swim, and paddle my own canoe. I shot six chipmunks, which we ate for dinner and I kept the skins, with which I am going to make a cap. William and I paddled the canoe down the river about three and one-half miles, followed by the other boys in the old flat bottomed scow. We had lots of fun. One of the other boys had been riding in the canoe with William and they had just come to land but didn't know how to get out. The other boy (Goody Greene) had never been in a canoe before, so did not know how to get out. He started out with one foot and was trying to get the other out when the canoe left land with half of him. He didn't know what to do, so started to get back in the canoe but couldn't quite make it and fell head and heels into his stomach in the water. He got out all right, we built a fire and dried his clothes, but we couldn't control our laughter for the rest of the day.

Two weeks ago last Friday, Sydney Dart, Earl Kid and I went camping out to Vermilion river. We took along enough grub to eat and a blanket apiece. It was dark before we had finished making camp but we kept on making our
