

BPL-991

Belden Paulsen Library

KESSLER & CO.,
BANKERS,
P. O. BOX 1105.

54 Wall Street,
New York, Aug 14 1890

Dear Will

I received your envelope containing slip for cousin Harriet this morning & have forwarded it to her. Her address is 248 West 133 St. I was pleased with the article and am much obliged to you for writing it as I felt that the Evangelist was the paper in which an obituary should have been published.

How does Bristol prove an better acquaintance? and are you all well acclimated yet? I have not been out of the city any this summer yet & it looks doubtful now as to whether I will even for a Sunday. We are all pretty well now at home.

(over)

I received a note from Uncle Scott this morning in which he said that they were back in the city now and
"both glad to get home both weighing"
"less than when we went away & take"
"it altogether we have had a miserable"
"time. Your aunt is only tolerably well"
"I myself intolerably"

Please remember me very kindly to
Ellen & the children

Yours truly
W. Ellagie